

Introduction

Comprehensive Wealth Management, LLC (CWM) is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) as an investment adviser. The services offered and fees charged by an investment adviser differ from those of broker-dealers and it is important that you understand the differences. There are free and simple tools available to research firms and financial professionals at www.investor.gov/CRS, which also provides educational materials about investment advisers, broker-dealers, and investing.

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We offer investment advisory services through our proVest® Platform. CWM is the only money manager on the proVest® Platform. We provide investment advisory services, including discretionary and non-discretionary investment management and financial planning services to individuals, trusts, and estates (our “retail investors”). The type of investments we choose for you will vary because the size of your account, risk tolerance, and objectives.

- We will work with you to understand your current financial situation, existing resources, investment goals, and risk tolerance. Based on what we learn, we will design a strategy with you to help you achieve your objectives through a portfolio of investments, and we regularly monitor and rebalance your portfolio at least quarterly. We will adjust recommendations to meet your changing needs, stated goals, and objectives. The type and frequency of service you receive may vary based upon the program selected.
- We typically manage accounts on a discretionary basis. After you sign an agreement with our firm, we can buy and sell investments in your account without asking you in advance. Any limitations will be described in the signed proVest® Platform agreement. We will have discretion until the advisory agreement is terminated by you or our firm.
- We do not restrict our advice to limited types of products or investments.
- For our non-discretionary services, you make the ultimate decision regarding the purchase and/or sale of investments.
- We generally require a minimum portfolio size of $500,000 to participate in the CWM Performance Targeting System (PTS®) program and $100,000 for the CWM Wealth Accumulator program under our proVest® Platform agreement. We will waive this minimum account size at our discretion.

Additional information about our advisory services is in Item 4, 7, and 10 of our Firm Brochure, which is available online at <https://www.cwmnw.com/adv>.

Ask your CWM Financial Advisor

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Should I choose a Brokerage product or service? Should I choose both types of services? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do those qualifications mean to me?

What fees will I pay?

CWM typically charges an asset-based fee (a percentage of assets in your account) for services provided under the proVest® Platform agreement. You will be charged an ongoing quarterly fee, which typically will not exceed 2% annually, based on the value of the investments in your account. The fees are negotiable based on a number of factors that could result in a client paying a fee greater or less than the standard fee.

- We typically deduct our AUM Fee from one or more of your accounts, in advance, on a quarterly basis. Since our fee is based on a percentage of assets in your advisory account(s), we have an incentive to increase your account value to increase our compensation.
- While financial planning and/or consulting services are typically incorporated into our fee, we also offer stand-alone financial planning and/or consulting services for a fixed or hourly rate; these rates are negotiated depending on the complexity and level of the service.
- For certain investments, you may pay a commission in place of an asset-based fee and/or pay charges imposed by the broker-dealer or custodian maintaining your account. Some investments, such as mutual funds, index funds, exchange traded funds, and variable annuities, charge additional fees that will reduce the value of your investments over time. In addition, you may have to pay fees such as “surrender charges” to sell variable annuities.
- Asset-based fees associated with a wrap fee program will include most transaction costs and fees to a broker-dealer or bank that has custody of these assets, and therefore are higher than a typical asset-based advisory fee.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying. Additional information about our fees is in Item 5 of our Firm Brochure, which is available online at <https://www.cwmnw.com/adv>.

Ask your CWM Financial Advisor

- Help me understand how these fees and costs may affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser?
How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of your own. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means:

- Frequently, the interests of the principals and employees of CWM coincide with yours and other clients. Individual securities may be bought, held, or sold by a principal or employee of CWM that is also recommended to or held by you or another client.
- Certain of our firm's professionals are Registered Representatives (RR) of Independent Financial Group, LLC, a broker-dealer and a licensed insurance agent. Commissions are received for products recommended as a Registered Representative and are separate from our standard asset-based fees under the proVest® Platform. RR's have incentive to use and recommend these products.
- CWM's investment advisor representatives (IARs) may provide advice about matters other than securities. Our IARs may also act as insurance agents. As insurance agents, they will receive compensation based upon whether, and in what amount, clients purchase insurance products through them. They have an incentive to recommend insurance products to you.
- As part of the proVest® Platform, we pay most costs associated with securities transactions for normal trades made in your account; Because of this, we have financial incentive not to make securities transactions in your account, or choose securities that won't incur a transaction fee which may result in the selection of a fund with a higher expense ratio. You, the owner of the fund, ultimately pay the fee by way of the fee charged by the mutual fund. Paying for securities transactions in your investment portfolio creates a potential conflict of interest where we have the financial incentive not to make securities transactions in your account when it is in your best interests to do so.

Additional information about our conflicts of interest is in Item 10, 11 and 12 of our Firm Brochure, which is available online at <https://www.cwmnw.com/adv>.

Ask your CWM Financial Advisor

- How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals are generally compensated on a salary basis and may receive additional compensation based on the profitability of the firm. Certain of our professionals receive commissions for selling insurance products, and thus may have an incentive to recommend the sale of these insurance products versus other products or investments that do not pay commissions. You should discuss your financial professional's compensation directly with your financial professional.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?

Yes. Certain of our professionals have disclosures in their Form U4. Visit www.investor.gov/CRS, for a free and simple search tool to research our firm and our financial professionals.

Ask your CWM Financial Advisor

- As a financial professional, do you have any disciplinary history? For what type of conduct?
